Part 1: The Legend of the Mohán (Reading & Listening)

a. Read Part 1 of the story.

Key: subject pronouns are in red, object pronouns are in blue. The small numbers are for activity c.

THE LEGEND OF THE MOHÁN Part 1

In a small village next to a big river in Colombia, the people know an old story. They[1] tell it[2] to their children at night. It is the legend of the Mohán.

The Mohán is a strange man. He is very tall, and he has long black hair and a long beard. His eyes are big and bright. He lives in the river, in a cave under the water. He likes gold, music, and tobacco. Every night he plays a golden guitar. The people hear it, but they do not see him[3].

The fishermen know him well, and they[4] are afraid of him. "The Mohán takes our fish, and sometimes he watches us," they say. When the men fish in the river, he breaks their nets. The old fishermen say, "We can feel him. Give him some tobacco." So they leave it for him near the water.

In the village there is a young woman. Her name is Rosa. Every morning she walks to the river. She washes the clothes there, and she sings. Her voice is beautiful.

One morning, the Mohán hears her. He listens to her[5], and he watches her from the water. He likes her a lot. "She sings for me[6]," he thinks. "I want her here, in the river, with me."

That night, Rosa's mother is worried. She says, "Rosa, please listen to me. Do not go to the river alone. The Mohán is there. He watches you[7]." But Rosa laughs. "Do not worry, Mother," she says. "You worry too much. He cannot catch me. We are safe in the village."

The next morning, Rosa and her friends walk to the river together. They wash the clothes, and they talk. The Mohán is in the water, and he sees them[8]. Then the river is suddenly dark and quiet. The birds stop. Rosa looks at the water, and she sees two big bright eyes. They look at her, and a deep voice calls her name...

Part 2: Subject and Object Pronouns (Grammar)

A pronoun is a small word. We use it in the place of a name or a noun.

Subject pronouns. The subject does the action. The subject pronoun comes before the verb. Rosa sings. → She sings.

Object pronouns. The object receives the action. The object pronoun comes after the verb, or after a small word like to, for, with, at. The Mohán watches Rosa. → The Mohán watches her.

Note: you and it are the same for subject and object.

Part 3: Your Video (Speaking)

Part 3: video and speaking (not graded)

Now you are the storyteller! Make a short video, from three to five minutes. In your video, tell us your favourite legend from Colombian traditions and culture.

Follow these steps:

- Choose your favourite Colombian legend.

Ideas: El Mohán · La Madremonte · La Llorona · El Sombrerón · El Dorado · La Patasola

- Plan your story. Use simple sentences in the present tense, like our story of the Mohán.
- Use subject pronouns and object pronouns (he, she, it, they / him, her, it, them).
- Speak for three to five minutes. Speak clearly and have fun. Small mistakes are OK.
- Share your video in our class group.

Ideas for your story

- Who are the characters? Say their names.
- Where does the story happen? A river, a forest, a village?
- What happens at the end?
- Use pronouns, so you do not repeat the names too many times.

Can you...?

- [x] understand a story in English
- [x] use subject pronouns (I, you, he, she, it, we, they)
- [x] use object pronouns (me, you, him, her, it, us, them)
- [x] say who a pronoun refers to in a story
- [x] tell a Colombian legend in a video
