Not counted in the score

- BODY.4.1 (p12, the 'hair' leader label): three or more letters written on top of one another. Only the opening h is legible, so the word cannot be read and the item is out of the denominator.
- ANIMALS.5.1 (p18, the ape with its young): she wrote nothing, but the picture cannot be named with confidence (gorilla, chimpanzee or orangutan are all defensible), so no correction can be written beside a cross and the item is out of the denominator.
- TRANSPORT.1.11 (p19, the 'Colour it pink' line): the printed sheet carries the word line and the colour instruction but NO PICTURE at all. The answer is almost certainly 'ship', but nothing on the page shows her what to write or what to colour, so this is a printing fault and not her error.

Notes on the marking

- MARKING DECISION (Alejandro, 3 November): a red cross on every wrong or missing item, and one green tick per exercise that is fully correct, not a tick on all 405 items. Each section carries 'tick_whole_exercise'. Seven exercises earn the tick: COLOURS.1, COLOURS.2, BODY.2, BODY.4, TRANSPORT.2, FRUITS.1 and FRUITS.3.
- THERE IS NO TEACHER KEY for this workbook. Every answer was derived from the printed clue, the picture and the letter count, and the derivation is written out item by item in _keys/DERIVED_ENGLISH_GUIDE.md.
- SPELLING IS THE TEST in the anagrams (BODY.3, ANIMALS.4 part A), the fill-the-missing-letters sheets (COLOURS.3, TRANSPORT.1, FRUITS.4) and the crosswords (BODY.1, ANIMALS.2, TRANSPORT.2, FRUITS.3), because getting the letters right is what those exercises teach. A misspelling there is wrong. In the word searches and the labelling sheets (COLOURS.2 part B, BODY.4, TRANSPORT.3, FRUITS.2) the word is the test and not its spelling, so 'hellicopter', 'Watamelan', 'mishroom' and 'policecar' all take the point.
- Her letterform habits are read through everywhere and are never marked wrong: u written as a narrow v ('dvck', 'movse', 'coconvT', 'ambvlance', 'TvrQvoise', 'FvcHsia'), n with a tall ascender so it reads as h ('hose' for nose, 'eggplant'), the unclosed o, the two r forms, and capitals mid-word ('blacK', 'Horse', 'potaTo').

• Blank counts as wrong and stays in the denominator. 43 items are blank, 24 of them the animal names on page 18, where she coloured all 24 animals carefully and wrote not one name. That page alone costs 23 scored marks.

• COLOURS.3.12 (sky blue), printed fault, marked CORRECT. The sheet prints the bold U in slot 2 of a four-box group, where BLUE needs it in slot 3, so the printed line cannot be completed correctly at all. Her three fills are b in slot 1, u in slot 3 and e in slot 4, which are exactly the three missing letters of BLUE in their right places. The error is the printer's, so she keeps the mark.

• FRUITS.3 4-Down, the clue line is marked and not the grid, so the item is CORRECT. The clue line reads 'orange'; the grid column reads 'brange', the b sitting in the one cell of 4-Down that no across entry crosses. The inventory counts one item per printed clue and treats the grid as supporting evidence, and every other crossword on this paper is marked from its clue line, so marking the clue line keeps the paper consistent. Worth showing her the stray b all the same.

• FRUITS.4.16 (cauliflower) is wrong. The printed line is c_u_i_l_w_r and the five fills are a, v, l, f, o, which sit one slot late from the second fill onwards and give 'cauvillfwor'. The letters are nearly all the right ones; the placement is not, and this is a fill-the-letters exercise.

• TRANSPORT.4 picture circles (items 17-32), marked on whether a mark is present. The printed instruction is only 'Completa la sopa de letras' and the circles beside the pictures carry no number and no written instruction, so a tick is a legitimate way to record a word as found and there is no numbered key to compare against. She ticked 14 of the 16; the airplane and the ship circles are empty, so those two are wrong. Judgement call.

• ALPHABET.2 (the maze) is wrong. She coloured 26 of the 27 path circles and not one of the 14 decoys, which is careful work, but H is left blank and the path from the bus to the STOP sign is therefore broken. Nothing partial counts. Judgement call: a teacher who marks the maze on effort would give it.

• The holistic colouring items: COLOURS.1 (rooster, every region matches its printed number) and ANIMALS.5.colouring (all 24 animals) are correct. TRANSPORT.1.colouring is wrong because three vehicles ignore their printed colour instruction (bicycle black not grey, car without black, lorry without blue), and FRUITS.2.colouring is wrong because the onion is left white. Judgement calls, both of them: the work was done, but not as the page asked.

• ALPHABET.3.15 (/kiu:/) is marked CORRECT. The letter is scribbled over with a heavy stroke, but the Q underneath is legible and nothing else is written in the box, so the scribble reads as her tidying a badly formed letter rather than withdrawing the answer.

• ALPHABET.3.24 (/iu:/) is marked CORRECT, reading her V-shaped glyph as the u-form she uses everywhere else in the book. This is the least certain call on the paper, because U and V are both targets in this exercise and item 25 (/vi:/) is also written V. It was decided the same way as every other v-for-u on the paper.

• ANIMALS.3.7 (donkey) is marked CORRECT. It is the only word in that grid marked with a single vertical stroke down the edge of the column rather than a closed loop, but the stroke runs the full length of the word and identifies it. Judgement call.

• ANIMALS.1: the printed list has both 18 Cougar and 19 Mountain lion, which are the same animal, and the two pictures can only be told apart by that list. She put 18 on the cougar, which is right, and 6 (leopard) on the mountain lion, which leaves 19 unused. Marked against the printed list.

• ANIMALS.4.29: the picture read as a bull in the transcription is the buffalo of printed word 13, since 'buffalo' is the only word on that sheet with no other picture. Her 13 is therefore correct.

• TRANSPORT.3: the printed word bank on page 21 holds exactly 30 words. Twenty-eight of them match a picture unambiguously, which leaves 'van' and 'lorry' for pictures 14 and 22: picture 14 is the light blue minibus (van) and picture 22 the box-bodied truck (lorry). That is how those two keys were settled. Picture 12 is the space shuttle, which is in the bank, so her 'RocKt' is a different word and not a misspelling.

• TRANSPORT.3.18 'cicle' is marked wrong. The word bank gives 'bicycle' and she spelled 'Tricycle' correctly at item 9, so dropping the first syllable is not a letterform slip. Judgement call: a marker reading it as a rough attempt at bicycle would give it.

• FRUITS.2.3 (tomato in the Fruits box) is marked wrong, because this workbook itself lists tomato among the vegetables on page 26. Botanically she is right, and the sheet says 'read, think, discuss', so this is worth a word with her rather than a bare cross.

• ANIMALS.2.23, the secret message, was derived rather than guessed. The highlighted column of the crossword picks one letter out of each of the 22 answers (horse 2, lion 4, penguin 2, mouse 4, whale 1, rabbit 2, koala 4, ladybird 1, goat 2, cow 3, dog 1, kangaroo 7, tiger 4, shark 1, elephant 7, frog 3, giant panda 5, monkey 1, cat 2, donkey 4, zebra 2, giraffe 4), which spells ONE SWALLOW DOES NOT MAKE A, and the sheet prints 'summer' at the end of the line. She left every blank empty.

- Where the transcription gives a primary reading and an alternative, the primary reading is marked. That costs her ANIMALS.3.22 (the bee), read as 16 where the key is 18; if that digit is an 8 the item is right and the paper scores 334. ANIMALS.1.9 (leopard, read 6), ANIMALS.1.14 (tiger, read 17, wrong either way) and ANIMALS.4.30 (turkey, read 16) are unaffected by their alternatives.
- Pages 4, 22 and 23 already carry multicoloured ticks beside the printed word lists. They are hers, drawn in the colour she used for each word, and not a marker's. The page will look ticked before any green tick is added.
- There is no name and no date anywhere on the 23 scanned pages. The cover and contents pages of the workbook are not in the scan, and the attribution to Sloan comes from the folder name.
